

Confair Takes Issue With Dilworth Shortway Stand

STATE SEN. Z. H. Confair of Williamsport, president of the Keystone Shortway Assn., yesterday made public a letter to former Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia criticizing Dilworth's stand on the east-west highway. Dilworth became a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor on Monday, the day his resignation as mayor became effective. He recently suggested that if the shortway is completed before tolls are lifted on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, commerce of the Port of Philadelphia would be impaired.

Text of Letter
The text of Sen. Confair's letter: I see where you are again complaining about the Keystone Shortway. Ever since the state began construction, you and the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce have been taking turns objecting to the development of North Central Pennsylvania.

On the other hand, we in this section of the State, have never objected to highway projects in the Philadelphia area.

Publicity Edge
"Philadelphia newspapers hold a 20-1 edge over New York publications in this area. I think you will have to agree we are truly a 'productive hinterland' for Philadelphia business.

"The Keystone Shortway Association has repeatedly pointed out that the Shortway, with its Philadelphia link via the Northeast Extension of the Turnpike, will put Philadelphia 43 miles closer to midwest traffic than New York City.

"In addition, the Shortway is expected to attract much Great Lakes region traffic now moving east on the New York State Thruway.

"Pittsburgh and its leaders have proven to be most cooperative with the people along the Shortway route. They eagerly favor early construction of the Keystone Shortway because of the influx of business they can expect from this area.

Traffic Increase
"As for your concern about a possible decrease in Turnpike traffic, I think you will have to agree forecasts point out there will be a 50 per cent general increase in auto traffic by 1970.

"Furthermore, Interstate Route 70 will feed additional traffic to the Turnpike over its route between St. Louis and the Pittsburgh area.

"With these good omens in the near future your Philadelphia banks should have no worries about suffering any losses of Turnpike bonds they may hold.

"As a candidate for governor you should not forget you will be running throughout Pennsylvania and not just in a small corner of the State.

"Politically Stupid"
"I strongly feel your recent statements in condemning the Shortway are 'politically stupid'.

"In the past you have called our people 'bears' much to their dislike. They will cease to be 'bears' much to their dislike. They will cease to be 'bears' living in what some people called a 'distressed' area, when new industries locate along the Shortway route.

"I think Gov. Lawrence and Secretary of Highways Martin should be commended on their intelligent and broadminded interest in seeing to it that the Shortway is finished on, or ahead, of schedule.

"It is too bad you cannot share their views in these days when progress would be the by-word."

Gen. Harkins Takes Over In S. Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Gen. Paul D. Harkins arrived from Hawaii Tuesday, amid a fanfare, to head the new U.S. Military Assistance Command supporting South Viet Nam's war against the communist Viet Cong.

A tanned, veteran of World War II and Korea, Harkins, 57, said he accepted his appointment last week with determination and humility.

From Red China came a charge that the new American command means the United States has "decided to expand direct aggression in South Viet Nam." The charge was made by the Communist People's Daily of Peking in an editorial relayed abroad by the Soviet news agency Tass. The paper declared U.S. actions aggravate tension and endanger peace in Asia.

Harkins is taking over direction of America's largest military operation in Southeast Asia. This is a program to train, advise and support Vietnamese armed forces being built to the 200,000 mark to cope with Red guerrillas, estimated to number 20,000 who are backed by Communist North Viet Nam.

The U.S. military establishment now about 4,000 men and expected to continue to increase, was said to have outgrown the command that built it up.

Although the U.S. forces are not technically authorized to engage in combat, the servicemen have been ordered to defend themselves if fired upon.

Firefights between Americans and the Viet Cong are being reported more and more frequently as support personnel move into the field with Vietnamese combat units.

Special targets for guerrilla fire are three companies of U.S. Army helicopters now ferrying Vietnamese troops to Communist strongholds. Official descriptions notwithstanding, the American forces are at least partly on a wartime footing.

Action and accidents have taken a toll in the past six weeks.

Eleven airmen have been killed. Communist ambushes claimed the lives of Spec. 4 James T. Davis of Livingston, Tenn.; and Clyde F. Summers of El Monte, Calif., a civilian engineer serving with the U.S. aid program.

Says Red China Should Have Say
WASHINGTON (AP)—A top administration disarmament adviser testified Tuesday that any arms agreement the West reaches with the Soviet Union must ultimately include Red China to have any real value.

Jacob D. Beam, assistant director for international relations for the new U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, told Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., "any agreement would not have much meaning unless it is applied across the board."

Beam was testifying before the Senate Foreign Relations on his nomination for the disarmament post in which he is already serving. Subsequently the committee gave him unanimous approval.

Negotiations On New Steel Contract Open

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Union and company negotiators open talks Wednesday on a new contract for the nation's basic steelworkers in the wake of a prediction by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges that an early settlement will be reached.

Hodges, at a news conference Tuesday in Washington, said it was "the general understanding that the steel contract will be settled long before" the old contract expires June 30. He said both sides have indicated "a serious, sincere attempt to get this thing out of the way."

Hodges also forecast a non-inflationary settlement. He said he did not believe there would be "much of an increase, if any," in steel prices as a result of the contract.

The secretary said he believed both management and labor realize the necessity to hold prices to a level competitive with foreign producers, and people now are "taking very seriously" the President's request for moderation.

The steel contract is considered by many economists the nation's most important labor pact.

President Kennedy used his influence to get the negotiations off to an early start—the earliest since the United Steelworkers Union was organized in the late 1930s.

The present 30-month contract expires June 30. In 1959 negotiations didn't start until April 30. Union officials met for three days last week to formulate broad contract goals. Increased job security and improved unemployment benefits are high on the list. A wage increase also will be sought.

Under the present contract, basic steelworkers earn between $2.28 1/2 and $4.38 1/2 an hour depending on job classification.

Management representatives said last week that union objectives appear quite moderate compared to previous years.

An atmosphere of cordiality and friendliness was evident on the eve of bargaining talks, in contrast to the bitterness present prior to some sessions in the past.

Union teams will meet separately Wednesday with representatives of each of 11 major steel firms to negotiate contract terms that must be ironed out on a company-by-company basis.

Then, on Thursday at 10 a.m., the chief bargaining teams for the industry and the union will begin negotiations on the basic contract. The union team will be headed by USW President David J. McDonald and the industry team by R. Conrad Cooper, a U.S. Steel Corp. vice president.

If Differences Are Settled:

Scranton Would Accept Gubernatorial 'Draft'

HARRISBURG (AP)—U.S. Rep. William W. Scranton said Tuesday he would become Republican candidate for governor if warring factions within the party agreed on his nomination.

Asked to comment on the Scranton development, Woodside said tersely:

"I will not withdraw."

Scranton's statement said:

"If both sides could settle their differences by honestly and sincerely agreeing on me as a candidate for governor, then I would run."

Scranton said in a statement telephoned to the state capital newspaper by his administrative assistant, William Keisling.

Definite Conditions
"But let it clearly be stated," Scranton added, "that I would only agree to this if it were definitely understood that this is to be a real settling of differences and that both groups now differing would wholeheartedly submit their council, their energy, their devotion to the Republican Party and Pennsylvania in common cause."

The statement ended weeks of speculation on what role Scranton would play in the 1962 Republican campaign.

The warring factions are headed by U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott on one side and Superior Court Judge Robert E. Woodside and U.S. Rep. James E. Van Zandt on the other. Woodside is seeking the GOP gubernatorial nomination; Van Zandt the U.S. Senate nomination.

Scott's Statement

Asked for comment on Scranton's statement, Scott told newsmen in Meadville:

"I will make a statement on Thursday in Philadelphia and have no other comment."

Asked if he were a party to the Scranton announcement, the senator replied:

"I know nothing about it. I don't know what's in it. I haven't seen it."

Scranton's statement concluded: "It is time. I believe for a strong Republican Party to work for a strong Pennsylvania."

"Not Anxious"

In announcing his availability as a compromise candidate Scranton made clear that he is not anxious to be the gubernatorial nominee.

His candidacy reportedly will be backed by Scott, who previously indicated he might seek the nomination if no other candidate emerged that was satisfactory to him.

Scott's position was backed by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who virtually gave Scott his proxy in waging his political battle.

Must Resolve Conflict

"The two groups within our party who are presumably at war must resolve their conflict," the Scranton statement said, adding:

"They must for the good of the party—but even more important—they must for the good of Pennsylvania. If that solution involves choosing a candidate for governor other than either of the two present front runners, I sincerely hope that it will be someone other than me, for I want to run for Congress."

Earlier in the day Frank C. Hilton, the Woodside-Van Zandt campaign manager, said both of those men are "in the race to stay."

(Ed. Note: The complete text of Congressman Scranton's statement will be found on Page 3.)

News In Brief

Sentence Gang For Smuggling

NEW YORK (AP)—Eleven members of a big international narcotics ring were sentenced to prison from 5 to 25 years each Tuesday for smuggling $150 million worth of dope into this country. Their arrest thwarted plans to expand their operation half again as much.

Meanwhile, three other defendants, who escaped trial by jumping bail and fleeing to Europe, were held during the day in new bonds of $350,000 each in the case. They were returned last month from Spain.

The ring was estimated by the government to have imported more than 200 pounds of heroin over a 10-year period and sold it for $150 million.

Atlas Military Missile Tested

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The Atlas E series, the nation's most powerful combat-ready military rocket, completed its test flight program Tuesday with a successful 7,000-mile strike down the Atlantic range.

The 82-foot rocket, an advanced version of the Atlas ticketed to boost John H. Glenn Jr., into orbit Wednesday, streaked into a clear sky and sped at more than 15,000 miles an hour to an Atlantic bulwark off the western coast of South Africa.

Since the E series began testing here in October 1960, the big rocket has hit on target at distances varying from 5,000 miles to 9,054 miles. The Air Force said the overall record of the rocket is 11 successes, 6 partial successes and 2 failures.

Tate Succeeds Dilworth Post

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—James H. J. Tate, gave up his post as president of City Council today to become acting mayor of Philadelphia.

Tate, 51, a Democrat and first Roman Catholic to serve as chief executive of Pennsylvania's biggest city and the fourth largest in the nation, succeeds Richardson Dilworth, Dilworth resigned Monday to seek the Democratic nomination for governor.

Tate, after taking the oath from Common Pleas Judge Francis X. McLaughlin, told a crowd of nearly 1,000 jamming City Council chambers the pace of Philadelphia's growth would double in the next 10 years.

Kennedys Plan To Visit Bali

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Bali lured the Robert F. Kennedy Wednesday. The U.S. attorney general planned to address University of Indonesia students, then take off with his wife Ethel for a three-day tour of that romantic island.

Bali is renowned as a place of love and laughter, reputed to have the slimmest women and the fattest pigs in all Malaysia.

It's a fertile island of 2,343 square miles, about the size of Delaware, nestled between Java and the Lesser Sundas. Balinese music and Balinese dancing are tourist attractions.

Kennedy devoted much of his Tuesday to discussions with Indonesian authorities of the Dutch-Indonesian dispute over West New Guinea. He had a two-hour luncheon conference with President Sukarno at Merdeka Palace.

Allies Draft Answer To Soviet Offer

Glenn On Ready Line For Blastoff

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., his scheduled round-the-world orbit flight threatened by Atlantic storms, Tuesday night went through final hours of preparation for the scheduled blastoff time at 7:30 a.m. (EST) Wednesday.

A decision will be made at a 1 a.m. weather briefing whether to pick up the second half of the split countdown, the first half of which was completed Tuesday.

Weather Marginal
The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Tuesday night that weather conditions were "marginal" in the Atlantic recovery area east of Bermuda, where Glenn's capsule would land if the mission were terminated after one orbit instead of the intended three.

Earlier, a spokesman said this boiled down to 50-50 odds, with the possibility the long-awaited flight would have to be postponed for an eighth time.

In hopes that the weather would improve, Glenn and the countdown proceeded on schedule.

Watches Missile

In late afternoon Glenn watched an Atlas military rocket launching from the Cape and may have gained some confidence in the report of its successful 7,000-mile flight. Although more powerful than the Atlas slated to boost him aloft, the missile fired Tuesday contained many of the same components.

As the scheduled launching time neared, hundreds of persons began gathering on the beaches north and south of the Cape to gain vantage points from which to watch the firing.

An estimated crowd of 75,000 was on the beaches when the flight was postponed Jan. 27 because of weather.

Shot Doubtful

Lt. Col. John S. Powers, speaking for NASA, said the man-in-space project's operations director, Walter C. Williams, didn't feel Glenn would be launched if the weather held.

Conditions were reported satisfactory in two other areas, where Navy ships would attempt to recover the 40-year-old Marine lieutenant colonel and his spacecraft if they made two or three orbits.

These recovery areas are 500 miles south of Bermuda and 800 miles southeast of this Cape.

Meanwhile, the countdown moved ahead without hitting any snags. The plan, as usual, was to complete the detailed check of the rocket, the capsule and the entire worldwide supporting system starting at midnight.

Glenn, who has betrayed no outward signs of tension in the long wait and repeated delays, was said to be "in very good spirits."

The 65-foot-tall Atlas rocket, which developed a fuel tank leak after the last postponement 18 days ago, was reported ready to go.

Missile Wulding

The Atlas has been standing on the launch pad for almost 2 1/2 months, raising questions as to whether it should be replaced. But the Air Force experts said there was no limit on how long the Atlas could remain in place.

Over that nearly 2 1/2-month period, sources said, the rocket has been checked over completely three times. Some of its parts have been examined as many as 15 times.

The aim is to shoot for three orbits, unless the launch is delayed two hours beyond the planned 7:30 a.m. Eastern Standard Time takeoff. Should blastoff come between 9:30 and 11 a.m. EST, the effort probably would be limited to two orbits. Glenn probably would be brought down after one orbit if he were fired aloft between 11 and 12:30 p.m.

Five-Hour Leway

The time schedule permits at most a five-hour delay beyond the 7:30 a.m. launch objective. This is because a launch after 12:30 p.m. would not allow at least three hours of daylight to recover the capsule from the Atlantic.

In the first orbit recovery area, about 500 miles east of Bermuda, waves were reported to have moderated a bit.

To avoid endangering the life of the astronaut and the chances of plucking his capsule from the ocean, Project Mercury specialists have determined that waves in any of the recovery areas must not be bigger than five feet and winds no gustier than 20 miles an hour.

Should weather foul up launch plans once again, the mission could be postponed from day to day.

SUITED AND READY — Astronaut John Glenn poses near the Mercury control center with a tracking antenna in background during preparations for the scheduled attempt on Feb. 14 at orbiting the earth from Cape Canaveral, Fla. Glenn is to be boosted into space atop an Atlas rocket, making the flight in a spacecraft named "Friendship 7."

French Funeral Cortège Marks SAO Resentment

PARIS (AP)—A solemn marching mass of nearly 200,000 Parisians bade farewell Tuesday to eight victims of last Thursday's bloody anti-riot rioting in a city stilled by sympathy strikes. The turnout of mourners following black-draped coffins was one of the largest crowds in the memory of residents. It rivaled the day in August 1944 when Paris was liberated from the Nazis.

As on that memorable day, the streets were packed with people. The broad Place de la Republique was filled as far as could be seen through the chilling drizzle which soaked the shuffling cortege on its two-mile march.

The massive funeral organized by labor unions and leftist and moderate organizations, was more than a moving tribute to the fallen demonstrators.

It was a striking display of public resentment of Secret Army Organization terrorism and threats against the government by these European extremists who oppose independence for Algeria.

But the crowds also were demonstrating against police methods in suppressing Thursday's riots and the government's failure to halt plastic bombings, blamed on the secret army.

During the funeral, a walkout was widespread. In Paris, electricity, gas, subway, bus suburban train and airport services were virtually paralyzed for four hours. Most public schools were closed as teachers struck.

Bodies of the riot victims, including three women and a 15-year-old boy, lay in state for two hours in labor union headquarters just off the historic Place de la Republique.

In several provincial cities, groups of several thousand gathered at monuments to the dead in ceremonies coinciding with the funeral in Paris.

In Algeria, terrorism by Europeans and Moslems went on without letup. Four Moslem auxiliary soldiers and their French officer were found slain in an Algiers suburb. Three Moslems were wounded in a gun attack by Europeans.

A strike far different from those in France struck Algiers. Shops and offices closed throughout the city in an antigovernment strike ordered by the secret army.

After the amendment was approved on a voice vote, Weiner said the measure—known as project 70—will be called to a vote next Monday.

Joined For Some Training,
Stayed 10-Plus Years In AR

By Jim Shafer
Daily Record Reporter

"I enlisted in the Army Reserve in 1950 with the idea of obtaining some training and possible promotion before being drafted and sent to Korea," Sgt. First Class Charles D. Schaller said following the recent ceremonies when he was awarded the Ten Year Reserve Medal.

The ceremonies were held in the armory of Troop "B", 3rd Recon. Sgdn., 9th Cav., 79th Inf. Div., Bank Alley, Stroudsburg.

SFC Schaller was called front and center of the unit and the citation was read by Capt. Charles Wilkinson, commanding officer. The medal was pinned on his blouse.

The medal is awarded to an individual completing 10 consecutive years in the Army Reserve and must be presented to the individual at formal ceremonies before the reserve unit to which he is a member.

Schaller said, "My first enlistment was March 15, 1950, when I joined the now inactive 411th Medical Concentration Center in East Stroudsburg. Lt. Col. Evan C. Reese, medical corps, was the commanding officer."

He served approximately nine months with the unit before orders came through from headquarters to deactivate the group. He then joined the 300th Field Hospital, a reserve unit in Wilkes-Barre.

Schaller said, "I spent about five years with this unit and I guess if 'M' Co., 313th Inf. Reg., 79th Div., would not have been formed in East Stroudsburg, I would still be with the Wilkes-Barre unit."

Moved To Stroudsburg

"M" Co. moved from East Stroudsburg to Stroudsburg and was absorbed in the formation of the present reserve unit in Stroudsburg, Troop "B", 3rd Recon., 9th Cav., 79th Div., USAR.

Schaller replied to the question, "What are your plans for the future, as far as the Army Reserve is concerned?"

His answer was plain, "I will re-enlist for another three years within a month. My present enlistment is just about complete and I'll stay right with the unit."

Sgt. Schaller's job with the local reserve unit is a platoon sergeant and tank commander. His 36-man platoon is composed of a reconnaissance, rifle and scout group. The tank unit has four men.

He is married to the former Shirley Smith, of Franklin Hill, East Stroudsburg. They are the parents of two children.

Troop 98
Holds Court
Of Honor

THE 52nd Anniversary of Boy Scouting in America was celebrated in Zion Lutheran-Reformed Church, Brodheadsville with a Court of Honor.

Six second class awards were presented by Scoutmaster William Fisher.

Troop 98, sponsored by the Brodheadsville Church, is one of four troops in the Pocono district to be honored with the Scouting Outstanding award.

Robert W. Hoffman, scout leader, addressed the parents on the part they play in the BSA merit badge program.

Frank Varney, institutional representative and recipient of the 1961 scout statuette award spoke on the successful recruiting program conducted by the troop since September.

Dr. Bruce Dunlop, organizational chairman of the Pocono Mountain district, presented the troop with its 1962 charter.

Refreshments, served by Mrs. Frank Varney, were enjoyed in the troop meeting room.

Hearings Set
On Welfare
Functions

HARRISBURG — Eight public hearings on the proper division of public welfare responsibilities and functions between the state and the counties will be held starting March 21.

They are scheduled for March 21 and 22 in Pittsburgh; March 29 in Scranton; March 30 in Wilkes-Barre; April 4 and 5 in Harrisburg; April 11 and 12 in Philadelphia; April 26 in Franklin; May 1 in Williamsport and May 2 in Hollidaysburg.

They will deal with six questions:

To what extent are public welfare responsibilities being carried out? In what other ways can they be carried out? How should responsibilities be divided between state and county?

What should be the local unit for welfare services? How should local services be organized? How can the public interest be best served?

Chess Club Continues
Drive For New Members

THE Stroudsburg Chess Club has added several new members since it opened a membership drive a few weeks ago. At the recent meeting of the group held at the Italian-American Club, Stroudsburg, the new members took part in many matches.

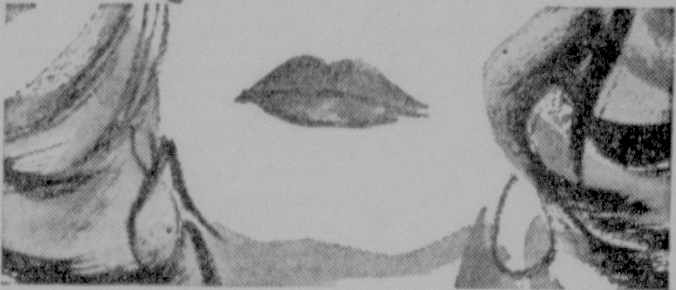

During the contests, club president Harold James defeated Jake Conley in four straight matches. After which tripped Earl Weiss.

Louis Mondelle engaged new member Frank Wilder, Jr., and took the match after Wilder had performed well. William P. Deering then defeated Mondelle in one game. However, Deering lost to newcomer Jules Vascona then beat Vascona in a second match.

Joseph Mureau racked up a victory over Weiss after a long and stubborn affair.

Brasilia, Brazil, is in the state of Mato Grosso. The state's name means "big woods," but less than half of it is jungle. Much of it is grassland.

PENNY Lynn Hineline, infant daughter of Harry and Anna Bryner Hineline, of 185 Marguerite St., East Stroudsburg died at 10:08 a.m. yesterday in Monroe County General Hospital.

In addition to her parents, she is survived by one sister, Barbara Ann Hineline, at home; the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bryner of East Stroudsburg, and the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Hineline, East Stroudsburg.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. today in the Lanterman Funeral Home. Rev. William F. Wunder will officiate. Interment will be in Prospect Cemetery.

Rose Gidashik, Kellersville

ROSE Gidashik, 80, died yesterday at 10 a.m. on the Monroe County Home, Kellersville. She had been a guest there for the past three years.

Mass will be celebrated Thursday at 8 a.m. in St. Mary of the Mount, Roman Catholic Church, Mount Pocono, with the Rev. John Walsh officiating.

Interment will be in St. Matthew's Catholic Cemetery, East Stroudsburg.

Friends and relatives may call at the Grose Funeral Home, Mount Pocono today after 7 p.m.

JFK To Hold News Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is going to hold a news conference Wednesday, but the time depends on whether astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., is lofted into orbit from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The presidential session with reporters is set for 11 a.m. EST. If the astronaut shot goes off as planned, however, the news conference will be moved back to 4 p.m. EST.

Both NBC and CBS radio-television had asked and received permission to carry the news conference live at 11 a.m.

Seranton's Statement As Governor 'Compromise'

HARRISBURG (AP) — Here is the text of U.S. Rep. William H. Seranton's statement Tuesday that he would be willing to be the Republican compromise candidate for governor:

"Some months ago, after a number of inquiries concerning my availability as a candidate for statewide office, I made it clear I would not be such a candidate.

"That is still by personal conviction. I want to be a candidate for re-election to Congress. My primary motive for going into politics—my motive for running for Congress in the first place—was that I might have further opportunity to work toward solutions of the industrial and agricultural problems that are important to the economy of my native northeastern Pennsylvania.

"I still want to do this."

"For that reason I have been willing to have my family make the sacrifices of family life that go with the public life of a Congressman. As a father and husband I do not want them to assume the further burdens that statewide public life would demand.

"Unfortunately the state political situation has changed. A divided Republican Party seems surely headed for a primary blood-bath.

"I am anxious that the Republican Party play the great role that it can in the destiny of Pennsylvania, but for this it must be vibrant and united."

"As a Pennsylvanian I care about the problems that face all of us who live in this Commonwealth. As a northeastern Pennsylvanian I am deeply conscious of these problems because statewide they are generally the same ones based on the economic change that affects my home area in a most severe fashion.

"The Republican Party cannot best serve Pennsylvania by sapping its vitality in a bitter back-breaking primary fight.

"The two groups within our party who are presently at war must resolve their conflict. They must for the good of the party—but even more important—they must for the good of Pennsylvania. If that solution involves choosing a candidate for governor other than either of the two present front runners I sincerely hope that it will be someone other than me, for I want to run for Congress.

"However, to those people from both camps, as well as those people who belong to neither group,

GOP Endorsed Only Scott

PARKE Unangst, chairman of Monroe County Republican Party, announced last night that the party's Advisory Committee has not endorsed anyone for public office "other than Sen. William Z. Scott of Lansford for governor."

A recent story concerning GOP General Assembly candidate Clifford Heller noted that the County Advisory Committee had endorsed his candidacy for the state office.

Gerald Snyder, East Stroudsburg, also is a Republican Candidate for the General Assembly from Monroe County.

Unangst said that the last time the Advisory Committee met was in August of 1961.

"We did not endorse anyone except Bill Scott," Unangst said.

"The Monroe County Republican Committee also met the Friday after the General Election in 1961. At this time there was no endorsement for anyone other than Bill Scott," the GOP chairman concluded.

Mother, 36, Satisfactory After Mishap

A 36-YEAR-OLD mother of five children was reported in satisfactory condition last night at Monroe County General Hospital where she is recovering from an accidental stab wound of the abdomen.

State Police of the local barracks said Edith Mary Basset, Stroudsburg, RD 1, was preparing school lunches for her children between 11 and 11:30 p.m. Monday when she tripped over the family dog while carrying several articles, including a knife, in her hand.

The blade penetrated her abdomen to a depth of three to three and one-half inches, troopers said.

Mrs. Basset was found lying on the floor when her husband, John, 35, returned from work about 1 a.m. yesterday.

Tavern Owners To Accept Only LCB Identity Cards

THE Monroe County Tavern Assn. yesterday voted unanimously to accept only Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board identification cards from youthful-looking patrons claiming to be 21 years of age.

The identification cards may be obtained only through the PLCB by application at any state liquor store. The application must be accompanied by at least three proofs of age.

In addition to the action on the identification cards, the association announced it will mail free to all its members PLCB declaration of age forms which must be filled out by persons presenting the PLCB identification cards.

The forms are kept on file by the licensee or state liquor store, may be offered as a defense in civil and criminal prosecutions for serving a minor and the PLCB order relating to them provides "no penalty shall be imposed if the Liquor Control Board or the courts are satisfied that the licensee or state liquor store employee acted in good faith."

Eric Schucard, Stroudsburg, outlined future plans and Joseph Dougherty, Pocono Manor, discussed increasing membership of the group.

Danny Pace was named chairman of the committee for the association's dinner-dance, date of which will be announced.

The association announced its intention of cooperating with the Pennsylvania Tavern Assn. on the question of Sunday sales. The group also went on record as opposing issuance of any more restaurant liquor licenses in Monroe County and retained Walter Olenick as its solicitor.

President Michael Leggiert, Stroudsburg, was in charge of the session.

Reports were given by treasurer John Alletti, Stroud Twp., and Gus Poulos, Matshalls Creek.

Former Area Pastor In Hospital

REV. C. Clyde Levergood, a former pastor in Monroe County, was recently admitted to the Methodist Hospital, Broad and Wolf Sts., Philadelphia, where he will undergo an operation. He expects to remain in the hospital eight to 10 days.

Rev. Levergood served the Cherry Valley Methodist Charge for 14 years. June 1st of last year he took up his new pastorate in The First Methodist Church of Saint Clair.

Consistory Bodies To Meet Monday

THE three bodies of the Keystone Consistory will meet Monday at 7:45 p.m. in Shopland Memorial Hall, Masonic Temple, Scranton, to transact important business.

Following the meeting the 20th degree will be exemplified in full ceremonial form.

All members are urged to attend the meeting and witness the exemplification of the degree.

War I Vets To Install

Stroud Union To Honor Washington

GEORGE Washington's birthday is being celebrated on Feb. 21-22 in the Stroud Union High School Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. when the Senior Class will present "George Washington Slept Here," a comedy in three acts.

"George Washington Slept Here" was written by the Pulitzer prize winning team of ewe four incident — A Dorset sheep gave birth to a quartette Sunday night at 9:00 p.m. at the farm of Kenneth Price, RD 3, Stroudsburg. Ewes as a rule have two or three lambs at a time, but four is most unusual. Mr. Price said "I've been raising sheep all my life and my daddy raised sheep before me, I never heard of such a thing before!" The lambs are all alive and doing well. This is rare too! ## Investment Tax Credit

The Administration has rightly attributed the slowdown in the nation's economic growth to inadequate investment. Its tax program includes an 8 percent "investment credit" against tax liability to any firm which invests in new capital goods of specified kinds. The Treasury calculates that the revenue loss from this provision would be about $1.5 billion, but other proposed tax changes are expected to recover at least this much revenue from business sources.

It is hard to see how additional investment can be made by business when there is no net decrease in business tax liability. No new capital is created under the Administration's program.

Moreover, the proposal is discriminatory, because it penalizes the business which has just completed a capital investment program as against a competitor who deferred such a program, and against the businessman whose business does not require new investment.

There is no guarantee that the $1.5 billion in investment credit would be invested, because there is nothing to prevent its being distributed with earnings to owners or used for other purposes. Nor is the amount sufficient to induce investment which business judgment otherwise would reject. As the Administration regards the credit as a permanent subsidy program, there would be no inducement to advance a capital spending program before its normal beginning.

Despite all the sad experiences the nation has had with subsidy programs and the distortion of the economy that invariably accompanies them, this is one more subsidy program, and a discriminatory one as well.

Understanding Needed

Reorganizations . . . mergers . . . consolidations . . . jointures: the vocabulary of education is filled with half-understood words which were virtually unknown a generation ago.

And, because some of the terms are linked, in the public's mind, with tax increase, they have become unsavory. The result is a sort of mass opposition to any proposed changes in school administrative systems.

Although area legislators opposed the law, to the man, a bill requiring larger school units squeezed through the 1961 session of the Pennsylvania Legislature. It was a last-minute affair, acted upon without adequate study, and today there is talk that it may be amended, or even repealed, at a later date. Selingsgrove area residents, both school directors and ordinary tax-payers, tend to "bristle" at the thought of forming a single county school system, as will be required if the law goes unchanged, from the three jointures that now exist.

We can only remind them that there were those who opposed jointures, when they were first proposed. Even though the merging of individual school districts has not been all smooth sailing, there are few persons, today, who cannot see the advantages of the combined operation. Cost of education, per pupil, is considerably lower in one area school, than it is in another, where the curriculum is more limited but the enrollment is only about one-third of the local total.

What concerns us most, at the moment, is the current lack of understanding of various types of school systems. Union or merged schools, for example, are in no way connected with the formation of larger school units. A newly-elected school director, who quite frankly admitted that he ran for office this year in order to have a voice in opposing larger units, went on record — unofficially — as being against union schools. He failed to realize that this was merely a move to eliminate duplication of book-keeping among the various districts already merged, for educational purposes.

A genuine interest in our schools is commendable. But it takes an informed public, not just an aroused one, to accomplish what is best for our boys and girls and their tax-paying parents. We urge the "anti-change" element to find out just what kind of change is contemplated before being convinced that it is a bad move.

The Party

For an American to understand what is going on inside the Soviet Universal State, he must first adjust his mind to the Party. Nothing like it exists in our country. President Kennedy has in his Cabinet some Republicans and some who are unrelated to parties. This is impossible in any state within the Soviet Universal State. To belong to all, to hold any position, to function in any manner, it is essential to be a member of the Party.

Such membership does not involve mere belonging; it is a total acceptance of the Party line of the moment. It means the devotion of all the hours of one's life to the Party. There can be no deviation even of the minutest nature. In the time of Lenin and Stalin such deviation was punished by death. During Khrushchev's management of the Party, he has substituted exile for death.

Khrushchev's Party line is based upon the general principle of competitive co-existence with capitalist countries. Such co-existence means that ultimately the Soviet Universal State will absorb all nations in the world without exception. This will be accomplished without war, and even with a reduction of Communist penetration. Khrushchev assumes that Marxist economics and sociology are so superior to capitalism that there can be no resistance to this movement.

The present struggle within the Communist Party is perhaps the most serious that has ever taken place. Actually, from a strict Marxist-Leninist standpoint, what Khrushchev proposes is nationalistic Communism. Under Khrushchev's system Russia could become the richest and most powerful nation in the world, but it would not be a Marxist nation.

The idea of the dictatorship of the proletariat would be abandoned, and in its place would appear a managerial society utilizing capitalist techniques. Whereas such a system might raise the standard of living of the Russian people, or of the people of any state, beyond the conception of man at the present time, it would nevertheless be a total rejection of Marxism and therefore must be rejected.

The struggle between Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung is on this issue; the struggle between Khrushchev and the remaining Stalinists is on this issue. For anyone to compromise would mean an abandonment of the Revolution.

We enter here upon a concept of the Party which is strictly ecclesiastical. Those who accept the Marxist-Leninist-Stalinist line regard the success of the Revolution as more important than the welfare of the people. They believe that when the Revolution has succeeded throughout the world all the benefits to man now existing in a capitalist state would automatically accrue to the people. They would use any method to achieve their end including war and regard Khrushchev's abandonment of war as a betrayal of the Revolution.

We must understand this conflict if we are not to be confused by current events in Russia. Any idea of liberalism in Russia is absurd. Neither side has a liberal program, by which I mean a program which recognizes the rights of man.

The word "liberalism" is used incorrectly by those who think in Western terminology. Both sides adhere to the basic principle that the state must determine the nature and beliefs of man, but the difference is over the techniques by which the Revolution is to succeed.

From an American standpoint the defeat at this moment of Khrushchev would mean the success of Mao Tse-tung, Molotov and Khrushchev. It would mean the success of the "Albanians." This could mean immediate war.

This puts the Government of the United States in a very precarious situation. It has no techniques for supporting Khrushchev; at the same time it must recognize the enormous peril in the "Albanians." Mao Tse-tung wants war. From every logical standpoint it is sound for him to have war provided that Russia does the fighting.

Red China would come out of such a situation as the principle Communist state unless there were a total defeat. The successor group to Khrushchev would be dependent upon Mao Tse-tung. Mao's greatest risk is the loss of Chinese population, of whom, if he lost 300,000,000, his country would be economically sounder and could be managed more efficiently.

This is a horrible picture that I paint, brutal in every aspect, but I am convinced that it is the picture that we face today and that we may have to meet by war.

The Pennsylvania Story

Possibility Of Another Session

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg—"My gosh, what next?"

That perhaps sums up pretty well the reaction of many lawmakers here on Capitol Hill as they faced the prospect this week of another recall to a special legislative session this year — to again act on congressional redistricting.

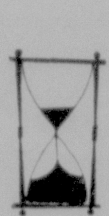

The whole thing—or it might be said the whole year, even in this short space of time—is fast approaching the ridiculous stage in the opinion of many of the legislative gentry.

And in reality they can hardly be blamed for their reaction. Look at it this way:

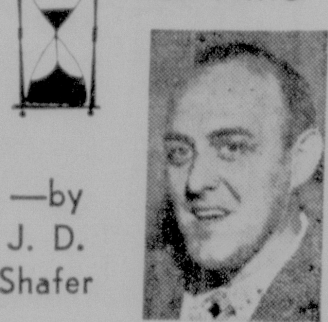

Throughout the entire 1961 legislative session last year lawmakers milled around in confusion and deadlock over what to do about redistricting—a fact of life they had to face as a result of 1960 census figures which indicated Pennsylvania wasn't keeping pace populationwise and thus had to give up three of its 30 congressional seats.

It was a bitter thorn in legislative hides last session—so much so in fact that they got nowhere trying to reach a solution.

Faced with the rather frightening thought that if they didn't do anything on the score by

It's the tip of the hat to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Luckey on their wedding anniversary.

Rocky Marciano stopped Lee Savold in the sixth round of a 15-round in Philadelphia. It was a title bout.

20 Years Ago

Selective Service board began preparation for registration. Cards were distributed to the various schools in the county which were appointed registration locations.

George Earle, former governor of Pennsylvania, requested to be ordered to active duty with the U.S. Navy.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt announced that she would resign from her office, assistant director of Civilian Defense.

George N. Kemp Post 346, American Legion, East Stroudsburg, was asking for volunteers to man the various "Aircraft Observation Posts" in the county.

February 20 of this year all 27 Keystone State congressmen would be elected at large, they managed to enact at a special session called last month by the governor a redistricting plan eliminating three Pennsylvania districts.

There was much teeth-grasping. It is true, but the thing was finally resolved to nobody's satisfaction. Now along comes a congressional move proposing the creation of three more seats in Congress—and alas, one would go to Pennsylvania.

The item hasn't cleared Congress by a long shot—but a number of sports here with an ear close to the Washington heartbeat seem to think the legislation has a good chance.

Should this actually develop, Pennsylvania's lawmakers then must eliminate one of the three seats they've already eliminated, or produce another congressional seat somewhere, to get Pennsylvania back properly on the congressional map.

Failing this, the new 28th congressman would be elected at-large this year.

The regular 1962 legislative session can't touch the thing with a 999-foot pole; the constitutional amendment setting the Legislature up on an annual basis took care of that in specifying that even-year sessions be limited to consideration of fiscal matters only.

Thus to handle the orbital problem, the only answer is another special session called by the governor—just like the one issued last month.

"This is really getting to be quite a ratrace down here," commented one veteran lawmaker. "I can recall the day when we used to amble in for our legislative session every other year, take it easy and seemingly handle all the necessary stuff, and then go quietly home. Now things seem to be happening all the time . . . Wonder who the nut is that thinks up all these things!"

How "common" would it be to have two special sessions in one year? The answer is: "not very."

We say "not very" because since legislative sessions started in the old Commonwealth back in 1776 when the British and "early Americans" were still throwing punkin' balls at each other, there was such an occasion only once!

That was back in 1935 when a special session was called first in May of that year and then again in December.

One curious footnote: if the Legislature should be called into special session again this year, it would of course be done by Democratic Governor Lawrence.

The only other time it happened in the history of the State, back in 1935, a Democratic governor did it then—George E. Earle!

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

The decision of Francis (Tad) Walter to run for another term in the House of Representatives was based on a report of a team of doctors. However we doubt that this was the overall verdict that prompted Monroe County's representative to the House in Washington to seek re-election.

Aside the usual long line of Democratic Party members and the clean bill of health rendered by his medics, Walter was swayed by the continual prodding of his colleagues—Democrats and Republicans congressmen who despite their oft-time snapping at each other band together when right is apparently right.

Rep. Dan Flood of Wilkes-Barre told his mates in the House:

"Everyone in the House recognizes in the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Walter) the qualities of an extraordinary man. His district has recognized these qualities by returning him to this House 15 consecutive times."

"He is one of the tall oaks of this body, one of the great men of this generation. The country and free world need him."

Republican Clarence Brown of Ohio had this to say:

"Tad has proven himself a true patriot in his defense of the American way of life. He has only one fault, or perhaps, there is only one thing about him I would criticize. That is the fact he has not seen fit to be a Republican rather than a Democrat."

"I can assure Mr. Walter that any time he wishes to leave the great party with which he is now affiliated, we will be very happy to receive him with open arms on this side of the aisle."

Rep. Clarence Kilburn of New York State (another GOP'er) offered:

"I am very happy the gentleman from Pennsylvania is going to run for reelection. He is extremely valuable in the House."

On and on came the accolades from GOP and Demo colleagues from New Mexico, California, Oklahoma, Illinois, North Carolina and other points East, West, North and South.

Monroe County must know they have in Walter the same valuable piece of machinery which members of the House evaluated. After all contains helped elect the Easton solon 15 straight times to a seat in Washington.

If 50 million Frenchmen cannot be wrong neither can you parlay a full House with the vote of Northampton, Monroe, Carbon and Pike counties and come up with a loser.

The Allen-Scott Report

Senators Probing The Powers Incident

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington—Senators probing the muzzling of military officers are switching their hearing spotlight this week to the big story of the day—the return of U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers.

They plan to highlight the Navy's censorship of an entire article on the ill-fated U-2 reconnaissance flight over Russia and the legal implications raised by the failure of the U.S. to protect the action Soviet authorities took against Powers.

Rear Admiral William C. Mott, the Navy's Judge Advocate General, is being called for questioning on Wednesday on why the Navy refused to clear for publication the thought-provoking article written by Dr. Oliver J. Lissitzyn, an associate professor of Public Law at Columbia University and a leading expert on International Law.

Entitled "Some Legal Implications of the U-2 and RO-47 Incidents," the article was to have appeared last spring in the JAC Journal, the official legal publication of the Navy.

Dr. Lissitzyn warned that the failure of the U.S. to protect the downing of Powers suggests U.S. recognition that Soviet espionage extends to at least 68,000 feet—or the altitude of the U-2 flights.

Also, that the lack of protest may have hurt Powers' chance of defending himself in his Soviet espionage trial. Dr. Lissitzyn wrote:

"Powers as an individual on trial before a Soviet court might well have pleaded ignorance of the upward extent of Russian sovereignty in extension of his guilt; but the failure of the U.S. to rely on altitude in justification of the flight and to protest against the Soviet action in the U-2 incident suggests recognition that Soviet sovereignty extends upward to at least the altitude of the U-2 flights (68,000 feet.)"

"Such recognition is implicit in President Kennedy's language in announcing his order against the resumption of U-2 flights: 'Flights of American aircraft penetrating the air space of the Soviet Union have been suspended since May 1960. I have ordered that they not be resumed.'"

Other highlights in the unpublished article are as follows: "The U-2 incident—and particularly the absence of a U.S. protest against the shooting down of the plane—further suggests that in some circumstances no previous warning or order to land is required by international law before an intruding foreign aircraft is shot down, even if the intruder does not itself attack or is likely to attack."

"The U.S. refrained from claiming a legal right to overfly the Soviet Union for reconnaissance purposes . . ."

"The failure of the U.S. to protest against the action of the Soviet authorities toward Powers and the plane he was flying provides additional evidence that national sovereignty in air space is a rule of customary international law and that it applies to the Soviet Union."

"U-2 Pilot Powers was captured near Sverdlovsk on May 1, 1960, after he parachuted from his reconnaissance plane. He was subsequently convicted of espionage by the military division of the Supreme Court of the Soviet Union and sentenced to 10 years' confinement. He was returned to the U.S. over the weekend in exchange for a Soviet spy."

Scoring Break Throughs—The U.S. and Russia are adding frightening new dimensions to missile warfare.

Developed almost simultaneously, these unannounced advances involve the development of sensational new missile firing techniques that greatly increase the deadly "first strike" capability of both nations.

The foregoing Soviet gain is the successful launching in salvo of 10 intermediate range ballistic missiles. This simultaneous firing of missiles took place over the Siberian testing range. The IRBMs hit target areas after flight of nearly 1,000 miles.

The stunning U.S. breakthrough came when the Ethan Allen became the sixth Polaris-firing submarine to join the Navy's growing nuclear-powered fleet.

In its trials, the highly skilled Ethan Allen crew fired eight of the submarine's 16 Polaris missiles within minutes of each other. All of the IRBMs' warheads struck the target area, 1,200 miles down the Atlantic missile range.

These highly successful experiments in rapid-fire missile launchings of IRBMs are the first of their kind in history.

The Soviet missile fleet has impressed official Washington as never before that Premier Khrushchev has within his grasp the power to destroy nearly all of Europe and Great Britain within a matter of minutes. In the Kremlin's arsenal are an estimated 1,000 missiles of the 700 to 1,100 mile range.

Club News

The Monroe Stamp Club will meet February 21 at 497 Stokes Mill road and will hold a game night that will be in charge of Rudy Butsch. Members are warned to come prepared for some fun and wild games.

The stamp class will meet Friday evening 7:30 at Ray Patton's house.

From The Realm Of Stamps

By Ray Patton

February 14 the Arizona Statehood stamp will have first day sale at Phoenix, Arizona.

The next United States issue will be the Malaria Stamp March 30 at Washington, D.C. Also on this date the United Nations will release their stamp for the Malaria Control. The U.S. issue will be a four-cent value while the United Nations will be a four and eleven cent set. "Education" will be released February 28th.

For those who are just starting in the hobby of stamp collecting there are several kinds of collectors: General collector collects the entire world; specialized collector confines his collection to stamps of one country; topical collector specializes in some topic he or she is interested in like: Flowers, Planes, Bridges, Churches, Boats etc. These are usually not arranged in any particular order or by country, but are set up on blank pages according to the pleasure of the collector.

Then there is the United States Collector, and many of us start with this country as we can get the stamps much easier, and later branch out in collecting some other country. United States Collectors are divided into the following groups: Used stamps, mint stamps, blocks of four, plate number blocks of four, position plate blocks, precancels, perfins and first day covers.

To qualify, applicants must have had experience in the handling or marketing of tobacco which required the ability to judge quality.

At least one season of work must have been with one of the classes of tobacco covered by the examination. Full details are given in civil service announcement 273 B.

Applications must be filed by March 8, 1962, with the Board of U.S. Civil Service Examiners, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D.C.

Announcements and application forms may be obtained from Don Serfass, located at Post Office, Stroudsburg, or from the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D.C.

$5 Book Held Free From State

HARRISBURG — State Secretary of Internal Affairs Genevieve Blatt said yesterday a privately published book, being offered for sale at $5 a copy, is "actually little more than a republication of material already published by the Dept. of Internal Affairs and available free of charge to anyone interested in it."

She referred to "Pennsylvania Municipal Manual, 1961-62," recently published by Municipal Manuals Publishers, Inc., Freeport, Me.

VA Check Is Not Income

VETERANS receiving pension or receiving vocational training, compensation checks are again asking the Veterans Administration this time of the year, "Is my VA check considered to be income and must I report it on my income tax return?"

The answer is no, says A.G. Palmer, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office, 19 North Main Street, Wilkes-Barre.

Veterans benefits are tax free, Palmer continued. These benefits which do not need to be reported include disability compensation and pension, dividends on GI insurance policies, education and training allowances, subsistence allowances for disabled veterans.

Mrs. Blatt said 45 of the 76 pages of the publication are simply reproductions of municipal government data previously published by her department. "Our consent for the republication of this material was never asked or given," she said.

We're headquarters for the SCOUT and TRAVELALL!

America's new work-or-play wonder! The Scout is a whole new idea in low-cost transportation. It's a hardtop pickup that hauls man-size loads of cargo one minute. The next, it's an open air runabout that carries three passengers in front and more in the rear. Optional all-wheel drive makes it an off-road workhorse, too. Optional Travel-Top converts into a handy town delivery. But no matter where the Scout goes, it saves on gas and oil with the thrifty INTERNATIONAL 4-cylinder Comanche engine. There's never been anything like the Scout before!

The TRAVELALL® by INTERNATIONAL is lower in height, for easy in-and-out. Inside, it offers lots of room for passengers and loads. Seating arrangements adjust to every need: 9 people plus load; 6 people plus a big load; 3 people plus a giant load. It has four wide doors. A tailgate that swings open to easy loading height. A flat floor. An electrically operated rear window and a clean underside for extra ground clearance. INTERNATIONAL V-8 power is standard. Some models offer torsion-bar front suspension for smoothest riding and box-type frame for husky hauling.

Come in today! See 'em! Drive 'em! Price 'em!

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

I have a sort of do-it-yourself Valentine's Day made up of bright bits of news: the Valentine's Day engagements, the Wedding Gown Revue up in Barrett, the reports of the decorations at the party.

Sort of straggly - looking maybe, but I like it. Just as I once liked the lopsided hearts, the headless cupids and paste-smear arrows of the home-made Valentines the kids used to give me.

And with the social page in front of me, you can't fool me about the season either. Outside, it is cold and dirty and the countryside is at its ugliest.

And one of the ugliest manifestations are the black gobs of snow that collect on the fenders of cars and then drop off along the street as if marking the trail of a great herd of mechanical cows, dirty cows.

But on paper with the Hospital Aux. already planning its Summer Antique Show (and with our Gal Sal, no less, as director); with the Coolbaugh PTA planning a horse show; and the East Stroudsburg Band Mothers getting started on the District Band Festival here in 1963;

With nominating committees being appointed, and annual meeting dates being set; you can't fool me, Spring can't be far behind. But meanwhile, I'll set the alarm and get up early to help launch our Astronaut.

It may not be logical or according to reason, but I cherish the conviction that if I watch and root for my favorite team on television, they play better; and that if all of us hold our breath and will it with all our might, the rocket will get an extra push like that party game where everybody puts the tips of their little fingers on the edge of a table, breathes three breaths and then lifts it like a feather. So push, to Valentines!

PTA Will Sponsor Horse Show

Pocono Pines— The Tobyhanna Elementary Center Parent-Teachers Assn. will sponsor the annual Horse Show this summer at Pocono Pines with the proceeds to benefit the Pocono Pines Library Fund. The library will be located at the school.

The announcement was made at the Founder's Day meeting held in February at the school with Jacquelyn Boltz presiding. Walter Melnikoff, president of the Monroe County Council of PTA's, was the guest speaker.

Stressing the duty of the PTA to children, he charged that it is losing the battle for education because of lack of interest, outlining several things which could make the PTA more effective. A discussion period followed.

The PTA is sponsoring biddy basketball games with donations being used for basketball equipment.

They also planned a spaghetti dinner with the team, cheerleading squad and fathers as guests of honor.

Samuel Lee announced that pre-school tests for next year's kindergarten children will be held in April. Beginning in the Fall, transportation will be provided for kindergarten children.

Mrs. Altomose's fourth grade class won the attendance banner. Refreshments were served by fifth grade mothers with Mrs. Annabell Clark and Mrs. Joan Knecht as hostesses.

At the meeting on March 8, a panel will discuss "Television and its Effect On Our Children". Taking part will be Mrs. Ann McLaine, Mrs. Edna Bonser, Mrs. Annabell Clark, Claude Baxter and Ray Newhart. Parents are urged to attend.

Band Mothers Will Sponsor District Band Here In 63

The East Stroudsburg Band Mothers voted to sponsor the 1963 District Band to be held in the East Stroudsburg Area Joint High School at their meeting on Monday night.

Mrs. Robert Cortright presided at the meeting. In other action the group announced as:

Endresen, J. D. Lantz accompanist.

Films showing the band on parade for the New York Lions and Atlantic City, loaned by Mrs. Jack Hine and Mrs. Clayton Heimbach were shown.

Mrs. Davis with Miss Ellen Hoffman and Mrs. Carl Wagner of the auxiliary advisory board announced they had secured volunteers for the Hospitality Shop at the hospital and for the room-to-room cart.

Mrs. Thomas J. Breitwieser and the members of her membership committee announced the new members: Mrs. Jacques Aquillon, Dr. Ruth Breitwieser; Mrs. Fred Brown of Great Neck, N. Y.; Mrs. Robert Encoe, Port Washington, N. Y.; Mrs. Harold Pine; Mrs. Arthur Pearson, Bogata, N. J.; Mrs. Francis McGarry, Mrs. Melva Reid, Mrs. Van D. Yetter, Mrs. C. A. Nauman, Miss Doris Imbt, Mrs. Russell Imbt Jr., Mrs. Frederick O. Diercks, and Mrs. Fred Strauser.

There was one guest, Mrs. Ted Beadle.

Mrs. Vernon Ellenberger, chairman of the hostess committee, announced that the March meeting would be held at the Penn-Stroud Hotel with Mrs. Gerald O'Neill as hostess and Mrs. Horace Walters as program chairman. Mrs. Nathan Meyer will show slides of the trip to Hawaii she and her husband took recently.

After the business meeting, cards were played and a film, "The Patriarch," secured through the Tobyhanna Signal Depot was shown.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lantz and her committee.

Century Of Weddings In Review In Barrett Tonight

Barrett— The bride wore brown. A gown from 1855 owned by Mrs. A. H. Mathieson, Stroudsburg, fashioned along princess lines with flared three-quarter sleeves had been trimmed by lace and lined. The material used to make this gown by hand was brown silk taffeta with satin brocade trim. The gown will be modeled at the "Wedding Gown Revue" tonight at 8 by Mrs. Robert Wilson.

Poke bonnets, long swinging fringe and gowns in color have all been worn to the strains of Lohengrin. These gowns will offer a chronological view of fashion over more than a century.

Final plans were made at the dress rehearsal in the Barrett Elementary Center Auditorium Wednesday night. Madelyn Maloney jotted down notes of interest about each gown and offered tips on handling gowns and veils which trailed on the carpet. Bouquets were chosen to match each gown. Cornelia Stabler Gillam gave tips on walking to the women.

After appraising the situation of the platform, Phil Pasquini has made arrangements for special lighting effects to spotlight each bride. Lloyd LaBar constructed the platform which extends out into the audience, affording an excellent view of each model as she walks through the ached trellis, decorated by Sherry Reese. Laurel and greens will be placed by Dale Price. Other decorations will include white streamers and bells which have been planned by Mrs. Jean Oppelt and Mrs. Ann Serfas.

Providing musical background for each exhibit will be Mrs. Marie LaBar at the organ console.

Auxiliary Announces 15 Members

The General Hospital Aux. 40 strong, turned out for the meeting held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. Lynn Lantz, 205 East Broad St., East Stroudsburg, when the names of 15 new members were announced.

Mrs. William Gorman, president, announced that she and Mrs. Fred Davis had secured Sally Ferree as director of the 18th annual Pocono Mountains Antiques Show to be held August 8, 9 and 10. Mrs. George Marsh will be advisor and Mrs. Horace Walters will be in charge of patrons.

Mrs. Davis with Miss Ellen Hoffman and Mrs. Carl Wagner of the auxiliary advisory board announced they had secured volunteers for the Hospitality Shop at the hospital and for the room-to-room cart.

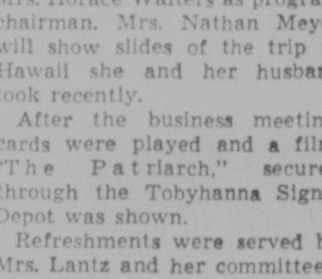

Mrs. Thomas J. Breitwieser and the members of her membership committee announced the new members: Mrs. Jacques Aquillon, Dr. Ruth Breitwieser; Mrs. Fred Brown of Great Neck, N. Y.; Mrs. Robert Encoe, Port Washington, N. Y.; Mrs. Harold Pine; Mrs. Arthur Pearson, Bogata, N. J.; Mrs. Francis McGarry, Mrs. Melva Reid, Mrs. Van D. Yetter, Mrs. C. A. Nauman, Miss Doris Imbt, Mrs. Russell Imbt Jr., Mrs. Frederick O. Diercks, and Mrs. Fred Strauser.

There was one guest, Mrs. Ted Beadle.

Mrs. Vernon Ellenberger, chairman of the hostess committee, announced that the March meeting would be held at the Penn-Stroud Hotel with Mrs. Gerald O'Neill as hostess and Mrs. Horace Walters as program chairman. Mrs. Nathan Meyer will show slides of the trip to Hawaii she and her husband took recently.

After the business meeting, cards were played and a film, "The Patriarch," secured through the Tobyhanna Signal Depot was shown.

Shawnee-on-Delaware— The Ladies Aux. of the Shawnee Fire Co. will meet tonight at 8 at the home of Helene Walters.

If I were an artist
With crayon or paint,
Pastels and charcoal
(But, darling, I ain't) ...

If I were romantic
Like Irving Berlin,
Whose rhythms and ditties
Could woo you like sin ...

Or even a genius
Like Christian Dior,
Just full of designs
That lend glamor galore ...

I'd use every talent
For making you mine.
Me ... I'm tongue-tied and dumb.
Be MY Valentine???????

NOW ... don't let me hear you say you didn't receive a single Valentine! Maybe my offering is not as good as some by Hallmark or Norcross, but it's meant just for YOU, so what more do you want?

And don't say you haven't a single thing to do this evening, because here's a personal invitation to attend the WEDDING GOWN REVUE, at Barrett Elementary School at 8 o'clock, under auspices of the PTA in benefit of the Library Fund. The gowns are gorgeous ... and even those of nearly a century ago are not as outdated as you may think. It's quite a revelation to see how some of the colors so good years ago are playing a return engagement this coming Spring ... or to see how many of the styles of days gone might have been taken from moth balls and worn just a few Springs past, when the sack dress was having its fling. As a matter of fact, one of the wedding gown from the 20's has tiers of long fringe and would be just the thing to wear now at the Peppermint Lounge where The Twist is the rage.

One of the dresses is made, I swear, over the very same pattern as my confirmation dress. It comes above the model's knee but is worn with a long, floor-dusting veil. In retrospect it seems strange, this combination of short gown and long veil, but in its day it was quite the thing. And what do you bet its day will come again?—maybe sooner than we anticipate.

I love the fabrics of days gone by, so heavy they would almost stand alone; so impervious to changing times and conditions, and I wonder if the miracle fibers of today will be able to hold their own from the standpoint of indestructibility? I wonder too, how the figures of brides will change through the coming years? The girls of yesterday were, in many instances, very tall—but one could have encircled their waists with two hands. Today's girls are fuller through the waist, and a hit thicker through the neck, making the jeweled dog collars quite uncomfortable. What will be the physical difference in brides of another few generations?

Mabel Huffman, president of Barrett PTA; Joan Toms, hospitality chairman; and Janet Brush, one of the home room mothers, will be among the models this evening. You may have heard them describe their gowns on Monday morning's radio program. If so, I'm sure you'll be anxious to see the show, because their gowns are just a few of more than 50 exquisite ones to be shown tonight. Join us, won't you? I'm sure you'll say, "What an interesting, sentimental way to spend Valentine's Day!" And you'll be right!

Supermarket Service Seen In Soil Conservation

NEED ADVICE on building a fence, canning pickles, cutting timber or building a farm pond? This is only a sample of the wide variety and wealth of information and services available through our government agencies. Here in Pennsylvania, representatives from all levels of government are encouraging sound land management practices. Let's take a look at some of the solutions experts who assist soil conservation districts have devised to conquer our land management problems.

Conservation Practices
The most basic problems in Pennsylvania are soil erosion and water control. The U.S. Soil Conservation Service specializes in these problems. Cultivated land creates the worst erosion problems since there aren't enough plants to hold the soil in place. Instead of running corn rows up and down hill, soil conservationists recommend turning the row around perpendicular to the slope. Each corn row then becomes a tiny check dam instead of a drainage ditch. Row crops should also be planted in long strips about 80 to 100 feet wide. These are alternated with strips of grass or other close growing cover crops which form a sod to hold the soil in place. This "new look" in agriculture is called contour strip-cropping. If this doesn't do the job, gutter-like terraces can be built to catch the water and channel it around the hill. The experts call these diversion terraces. Controlling surface water doesn't always do the whole job either and the SCS technicians go underground to solve drainage problems with tile lines.

Not only can soils be rejuvenated from former abuse, they can be improved. Through the skills of the Agricultural Extension Service at The Pennsylvania State University, soil is tested and lime and fertilizer additions and rotations recommended to make the land more productive than ever before. Conservation farmers are learning not to ignore their woodlots. They know that cows produce milk from grass, not trees. Once the woods are fenced off, a forester from the State Department of Forests and Waters helps initiate a scientific tree management program. By leaving enough good trees to maintain a continuous forest, land owners and timber operators find they can harvest a fine crop of timber as often as every 10 years.

Healthy soil produces healthy plants; healthy plants produce healthy wildlife. Some of the first conservation practices in Pennsylvania appeared on land owned by the Pennsylvania Game Commission. Long, narrow fields and terraces not only protect the soil, they serve as handy travel lanes for farm game. Landowners especially interested in attracting wildlife can install additional practices. For example, the thorns of a hedge can replace barbed wire. The edges of a woodlot can be cut to eliminate shaded areas in cropland and produce brushy areas to shelter wildlife. Saving a few hollow trees in the woods will furnish good apartment houses for birds and animals.

Fishermen are glad to have the farmer keep his soil at home. Fish don't particularly care for muddy breathing. If the landowner is interested in luring fish to his stream the best fellow to see is the local fish warden for the Pennsylvania Fish Commission. If you have a farm pond, he can help you to create the best possible fishing in it.

Our modern civilization uses land for more than farming. It has to have buildings and highways. Conservation farming keeps our farms off the highways and the Pennsylvania Department of Highways can, in turn, coordinate highway drainage with farm drainage.

Education Basic Job
In addition to this team of technical advisers helping landowners through soil conservation districts, there is an educational team. County Agents spend much of their time passing along information received from the Experiment Station at Penn State. The Vocational Agricultural program in training farmers and agricultural workers for the future is creating new conservationists.

Conservation pays! But at times it's difficult, financially, for the farmer to get started in his conservation program. To aid him, the federal government has set up a cost-sharing program. There is an Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee in every county to help the farmer install conservation practices. Another federal agency, the Farmers Home Administration, makes low interest loans available to farmers who want to improve their farming operations.

Patterson Joins NAACP Parley

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said yesterday world heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson will take part in a NAACP regional conference at Jackson Feb. 25.

The announcement said Patterson will join such Negro stars as Elston Howard of the New York Yankees, comedian Dick Gregory, boxer Archie Moore and former baseball star Jackie Robinson.

States involved will be Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Mississippi. The NAACP is outlawed in Alabama.

Medgar Evers of Jackson, state field secretary of the NAACP, said the theme of the three-day conference will be "Action for Freedom," and on registration and voting.

Bethlehem, Easton Are Threats

Wide Open Race Looming For School Court Honors

By FRED WALTERS

HARRISBURG (AP) — The WPIAL has a number of classy contenders for the state Class A basketball championship this year.

But results to date around the state indicate that once again this top scholastic prize may land somewhere else.

Last year, Hickory Twp. became only the second team since World War II to interrupt the WPIAL's long string of western championships.

Fifth Time

The championship went to the eastern finalist, Nanticoke, however. That marked the fifth eastern victory in 14 post-World War II years.

On two other occasions, there was no state champion.

The WPIAL champion won the other nine titles.

The front runners in this talent-laden western Pennsylvania district appear to be Farrell, which had clinched at least a tie for its Section 3 league title going into Tuesday night's games, and Uniontown of Section 5.

Mount Lebanon, defending district champion, was locked in a tight struggle in the Section 4 race, but was still a contender.

Hickory Twp. was again a contender in District 10, but Meadville was rated the team to beat in that district.

Another strong western contender appeared to be Johnstown, which defeated Farrell in an exhibition game earlier this month, 41-34. Johnstown is in District 6.

In the eastern districts of the PIAA, however, there were a handful of prime contenders, including Nanticoke, in District 2.

Is Top Threat

West Hazleton, unbeaten after 16 games, looms as a top threat to Nanticoke in its district, with Scranton Central a darkhorse contender. The District 1 outlook still was wide open with Norristown, winner of the Holiday Tournament at Johnstown; Springfield of Delaware County; defending champion Radnor; Ambler, and Coatesville, among the leaders.

In District 11, attention was on the East Penn League where Bethlehem, defending district champion, Easton, and Tamaqua were contending for the title.

Shamokin, defending District 4 champion, already is out of the picture this year and Coal Twp., Danville, and Williamsport were vying for its crown.

A top candidate for eastern honors is York of District 3's Central Penn League. York won the league's first half title. Defending district champion Reading still is in contention, however. A darkhorse in this strong district could be Carlisle.

Had Lead

Jim Thorpe, first-half leaders in the Black Diamond League, had to overcome a 32-29 deficit after two periods to gain the victory.

The Pocono five spread 16 points into the first two frames but lost out in the third period when Thorpe took a 19-14 advantage.

Dear Abby

Maybe He's Dreaming!

Dear Abby: Is a person responsible for what he says in his sleep? My husband talks in his sleep. A few times he has mentioned women's names, but when I say anything to him he says he doesn't remember dreaming about any women. He says he is not responsible for what he says in his sleep. Is he right? I don't believe he is. I don't believe he is unfaithful to me because he always comes right home after work, is a good husband and seems crazy about what he says in his sleep.

WONDERING

Dear Wondering: If your husband behaves well when he is awake, don't worry about what he says in his sleep.

Dear Abby: In 1959 I sent a necktie to an elderly uncle for Christmas. I had this tie around the house for some time (still in its original plain white box and tissue), and had forgotten where it came from. It looked like an old man's tie and my husband wouldn't wear it. Well, for Christmas, 1960, this old uncle sent the tie to my husband saying it was the same tie he had given him for Christmas in 1958. I guess it must have LOOKED like my uncle because I thoughtlessly sent it back to him for Christmas, 1961. I know it was a foolish mistake, but we send about 100 gifts every year and I honestly forgot the history of this tie. We haven't heard from this uncle and I wonder if we shouldn't write and apologize? He must think we're crazy.

THOUGHTLESS

Dear Thoughtless: I hope you and your uncle have a sense of humor. If I were you I would send him a box of matches and tell him to burn up the tie to put it out of circulation.

Dear Abby: A few boys came over unexpectedly last night. It was about nine o'clock and I had on my flannel pajamas and a woolen bathrobe, so I didn't see anything wrong with appearing before them in what I was wearing. They only stayed about an hour and we just sat around and talked. After they left my mother gave me the dickens. She said no respectable girl would entertain boys in her night-clothes. Abby, I was wearing ten times as much as I would have been had I been on a swimming party with them. Will you please help me explain this to my mother?

Fifteen And Respectable

Dear Fifteen: It's not how well covered you were, but what with. A young lady should not receive callers while she's dressed for bed. You should have quickly changed to a skirt and sweater.

How is the world treating you? Unload your problems on Abby, care of this paper.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 14
March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Scales of benefits and merits tip in your favor now. But you will have to work patiently for their rewards. Be aloof to foolish enterprises. Waste money. Seek only your finest achievement.

YOU BORN TODAY have a variable star to your knowledge. Your objective should be to extract the best of your many facets that others will see you in proper perspective. Your ability to interest people in work and products can lead you to your adorable position. Strongly intuitive, artistic qualities; can coin the right setting, it's correct. You have the rare ability to generate enthusiasm amongst fellowmen. Just sure it is not overdone or overexerted. And control a tendency to try too hard. Make the done in part are not as effective. With fewer tasks at a time, your skills, ability, and talent will shine. Zangwill, author; Stuart Irwin, Astro.

Art Awards To Be Given At Wilkes-Barre Preview

THE WYOMING Valley Art League, Wilkes-Barre, will award $1,000 in prizes at the preview of its Second Regional Art Exhibit, Friday night, Feb. 16 at the Little Gallery, 42 West Market St., Wilkes-Barre.

Three judges—Edwin Zoeller, Tyronne, Pennsylvania, Ernest Flene, N.A. and Robert Gwathmey, both of New York City selected 95 paintings and drawings from 450 entries for the exhibition.

Prizes totaling $1,000 will be awarded to the following: First prize $500 Adolph Konrad, Fland, N.J. for oil painting "Music Shop."

Second prize $250, John R. Fell, Elmira, N.Y. for abstract oil painting "Winter Approach."

Third prize, $100 Giovanni Martino, N.A. Philadelphia for oil painting "Corner of Main and Cotton streets."

Other awards: A. J. Cordoni, Jr., $100 water color award; Chester E. Colson, Wilkes County, N.C. and Robert Gwathmey, both of New York City selected 95 paintings and drawings from 450 entries for the exhibition.

Prizes totaling $1,000 will be awarded to the following:

German Drafts

Are Imprisoned

BERLIN (AP) — Three high school pupils in Communist East Germany have been sent to prison for making a dramatic protest in the classroom against the military draft law. Information Bureau West said Tuesday.

The unofficial West Berlin intelligence service said one pupil got a 5-year sentence and two classmates 3½ years each for their stunt at Anklam, in north-west Germany.

They showed up at school dressed in black and draped a mourning cloth over the teacher's desk. When the teacher asked what they meant one replied: "We are burying our future."

Major Robert W. Bradley, assistant Deputy Commanding Officer at Tobyhanna Signal Depot will be the principal speaker.

Frank Ashman, president of the Optimist Club will preside.

Chairman for the day will be Milton S. Lippincott Sr., past Lt. Governor of Optimist District 2 and a member of the Scout Council.

Council officers and board members who will attend will include: President Charles H. Whitlow of Mount Pocono; Scout Executive Elmer H. Morgan; Council Advancement Chairman John W. Metzger of Bangor; Council Health & Safety Chairman Neil F. Ruddy of Belfast and Board Member Nathan Reibman of Easton.

Also Glenn Grigg, Walter Cole III, Brian Albert, Bangor; Thomas Tanzosh, Arnold Traupman Jr., Barry Schwartz, George Brod, Neil Ruddy III, and Richard Kuch, Nazareth; James Cook, Pen Argyl; James Rider, Cresco; Robert Stewart, Wind Gap and Stephen DeFranco of Roseto.

Here's real news! The makers of Playtex have put a soft sheer cloth lining in the Playtex Magic Controller. This new cloth lining has millions of tiny air-fluffed fibers that breathe with you — keep you cool and comfortable all day. And the new Playtex Magic Controller has seven-way stretch. Whether you stand, stoop or sit it won't ride up. Magic finger panels give tummy control and your new Playtex won't puncture or tear.

This is the Ford Fairlane's new Challenger "260" V-8.

There's no other V-8 like it. It's the latest in a series of Ford V-8 triumphs that started back in 1932 when Ford introduced the world's first popu-priced V-8. Today—30 years and 30 million V-8's later—the Challenge "360" adds new fuel to the hottest performance record in V-8 history.
